Basic PeaceNet Use Instructions

1. Set your telecommunications software to the following configuration:
7 Data Bits, 1 Stop Bit, Odd Parity, Full Duplex, and Xon/Xoff should be on.
2. Have your computer dial your local Telenet access number. You can send and receive data at either 300 or 1200 baud. (If your area is not covered by any of these numbers, call Telenet at 1-800-835-3638 and ask for your local access number.)

Seattle/Bellevue Access Number: (206)625-9612

San Francisco Bay Area Access Numbers:

| | | |
|--------------------------|--------------------------|-----------------------------|
| (415)827-3960 Concord | (415)881-1382 Hayward | (415)836-4911 Oakland |
| (415)856-9995 Palo Alto | (415)591-0726 San Carlos | (415)956-5777 San Francisco |
| (415)472-5360 San Rafael | (415)829-6705 San Ramon | (408)294-9119 San Jose |
| (408)375-2675 Monterey | (408)443-4940 Salinas | (408)429-6937 Santa Cruz |

3. Once your computer has connected with Telenet, hit your <return> key twice. Your screen should say "TERMINAL=". Hit the return key again and you will see an "@" sign. Now type in PeaceNet's address, which is "408346", and hit the return key.
At: " login: (? for help):" enter your user ID (all lowercase, no spaces)
At: "Password: (? for help):" enter your password
At: "Terminal = generic (hit <RETURN> or enter correct terminal type):" enter <return>
You will see the main PeaceNet menu:
PeaceNet commands: (c)onf (h)elp (m)ail (s)etup (u)sers bye

4. To use the electronic mail system, enter "m" at the main menu.

To READ mail: at the "mail?" prompt, enter "g" (for "Go to a mail folder"). At "Enter folder name (or <RETURN> for incoming, ? for list:" enter <RETURN> to go to your incoming mail folder. At the "mail?" prompt, enter "i" to list an Index of your incoming messages. At this point, you can read any of the messages by entering the message number at the "mail?" prompt. You can also read any Unread messages by entering "u".

To WRITE mail: at the "mail?" prompt, enter "w". Here you have three options:
"r" (REPLY) lets you respond to the last piece of mail you read, automatically directing your reply to the sender.
"n" (NEW) lets you send a new letter to someone. You can either compose your message online, or upload it from your computer's word processor.
"c" (COPY) lets you send someone a copy of the last piece of mail you read.

5. Logging Off: To leave the Mail area, type "q" (for QUIT) at the "mail?" prompt. To leave PeaceNet, type "bye" from the main menu.
6. Further Help: For more extensive help or command listings, type "?" or "h" from anywhere on PeaceNet. Or call the PeaceNet office at (415)486-0264.
